

HALLE BERRY MARKS TWO YEARS AS CHIEF COMMS OFFICER AT PENDULUM – TEASES ‘BIGGEST PROJECT YET’ AHEAD OF WEB SUMMIT

May 29, 2025

San Francisco, CA – Pendulum Therapeutics, the industry leader in microbiome science, is taking the stage at Web Summit this week, as the company continues to advance its storytelling around gut health.

Co-founder and CEO Dr. Colleen Cutcliffe will be speaking in Vancouver on the link between the microbiome and just about every aspect of human health, and outlining Pendulum’s various scientific breakthroughs.

Pendulum Glucose Control was the first (and only) microbiome intervention that was clinically proven (British Medical Journal) to lower A1c and blood glucose levels for patients with type 2 diabetes – with a level of control similar to insulin, but in an all-natural, non-drug form.

One of the strains in that blend is Pendulum’s proprietary Akkermansia muciniphila, the first novel strain to be brought to market in years.

With all the science behind the scenes proving ground-breaking, Academy Award winning actress Halle Berry (Best Actress, Monster Ball, 2002) – Chief Communications Officer and investor at Pendulum – has been leading the charge on making it accessible to the wider population.

She said: “Since I started my entrepreneurial journey with Pendulum, I’ve been consistently surprised by how often I find myself staying up to the early hours, ideating about the business in every aspect.

“I came to Pendulum as a customer, and then invested, before taking on a day-to-day role, and being able to help shape a company I love has been such a thrill.

“We’ve been heads down working on something hugely exciting, I’ve been overseeing a redesign of the Pendulum packaging, pouring love, sweat, and tears into creating something that reflects the importance of this company.

“The new packaging launches officially on July 1st, although anyone who follows me on Instagram might have had a sneak early peek. Oops! I can’t wait for you to see our vision come to life.”

About Pendulum Therapeutics

Pendulum Therapeutics is the leading innovator in microbiome science, delivering clinically validated probiotic formulations to support metabolic health. The company leverages cutting-edge research and strong intellectual property to bring effective, science-backed solutions to consumers worldwide.

For more information, please contact:

Lee Price
Pendulum Therapeutics
Email: press@pendulumlife.com