PRESS RELEASE

Stingrai.io Launches Continuous Penetration Testing and PTaaS Platform to Transform Offensive Cybersecurity

Toronto, ON – May 27, 2025

Stingrai.io, a Toronto-based offensive cybersecurity company, revealing the launch of its Continuous Penetration Testing Service and Penetration Testing-as-a-Service (PTaaS) Platform to coincide with the Web Summit Vancouver 2025 on May 27, 2025.

Stingrai.io is redefining traditional cybersecurity testing by offering continuous, real-time security assessments powered by an elite team of white-hat hackers and a proprietary PTaaS platform. Unlike the outdated once-a-year compliance-driven tests, Stingrai.io's continuous approach ensures that every major code push, product release, or infrastructure change is proactively tested against real-world attack scenarios.

"Our mission is simple: simulate real-world attacks before the attackers do," said Arafat Afzalzada, Founder and CEO of Stingrai.io. "Modern businesses deserve security that evolves as fast as they innovate, not static reports that are outdated the moment they're delivered. With our platform, clients gain real-time visibility into vulnerabilities, integrated ticketing, and the ability to retest instantly."

Stingrai.io's PTaaS platform enables seamless integration into DevOps. Clients benefit from immediate access to live findings, remediation advice, and continuous validation of their security posture.

The company has already seen strong momentum in 2025, onboarding fintech, SaaS, and enterprise clients across Canada and Europe. Recent milestones include:

- $129,950 CAD in revenue generated in Q1 2025
- Team expansion to 7 highly certified penetration testers
- Successful launches in both the Canadian and UK markets

As cybersecurity threats continue to evolve, Stingrai.io's continuous penetration testing model represents a major leap forward, helping organizations move beyond checkbox compliance toward truly proactive security.
